

1-Welcome Kristi! It is a great pleasure having you as my guest in concurrency with Renner's Rules release in Italy. Would you like to begin this interview by telling the readers something that they wouldn't otherwise find in your official Bio page?

I'm a total lover of books. I read books just as eagerly as I write them! When I'm not writing or reading, I'm taking pictures of books or talking about books. Books are truly my very favorite thing in the world!

2- You have written several books in many different genres, including historical romance, paranormal romance, and erotic romance. You love challenges in writing. Do you think there are books of yours that can be considered daring or borderline?

I certainly love a challenge, yes! Some of my daring titles are The Wild and Hale. Both of those are considered "unsafe" as they go way outside of the normal box. I love them both dearly though. All stories deserve a voice, even the ones many people do not think should be heard.

3- Renner's Rules belongs to Taboo Treats series that includes sexy, steamy short reads. Are these novellas necessarily in any kind of order? Would you like to tell something more about this series?

The Taboo Treats do not necessarily have to be read in order to enjoy, but if you would like to know the order I wrote them in, it is as follows (with more being added to as I publish):

Bad Bad Bad (only available on my website as it was banned on Amazon)
Coach Long
Ex-Rated Attraction
Mr. Blakely
Malfeasance
Easton
Crybaby
Lawn Boys
Renner's Rules
The Glue
Dane
Enzo
Red Hot Winter

4- Follie Letterarie loves to publish novellas. Would you like to tell Italian readers about all the benefits from a sexy short story? Why did you choose to write also this kind of stories?

That is awesome! I think people are attracted to short stories because everyone is always so busy or distracted. When you read a short, steamy book, then you have a sense of accomplishment usually by reading it in one sitting. I love writing these stories because it gives my brain a break in between the books that are longer, more difficult, and require more research. These taboo treats are my reward!

5-Let's talk about Renner and Elma, the characters of Renner's Rules. Would you like to introduce them to Italian readers?

Adam Renner is the principal of the school and Elma is the daughter of an old military buddy of Adam's. When she gets into some trouble, her father asks Adam if she can come stay with him to keep out of trouble. And whom better to sort out a naughty girl than a growly principal at her school?

6-Where did you draw inspiration from for this story?

All the characters live in my head until I free them. I usually don't have inspiration for my characters from people on television or anything.

7-What do you love to be surrounded from when you're writing? What you can't do without?

I love to have my coffee!! I can't survive without it. I prefer silence, but I also like when my husband plays music or strums on his guitar while I play. I write on my laptop in my recliner. I've tried other places but I just don't feel right about it.

8-How do you feel when one of your books is going to be released?

I'm nervous, mostly, that something will go wrong. I have bad luck with technology. I'm always fretting that something won't upload right. Mostly, I feel happy and relieved sending my book baby into the world. I'm always very proud of my stories and am eager to get them into the hands of my readers!

9 -Do you allow yourself to be influenced by the reviews?

No, I do not read them at all because of this. If I see a negative review, it puts me in a sad mood where I want to feel sorry for myself which isn't conducive to my creative process. If I focus on the story the way I want it, and not worry about what others think, I write much better and happier.

10 -Can you tell us if there are any new works in progress and if there are any new projects in sight?

I have several projects coming this year! Some more taboo treats are in the works! I also have many co-write projects. Some are steamy, some are heartbreaking, and some are deviant. I love having a variety!

11 -Is there anything that you would like to say to Italian readers?

Thank you SO much for reading my book! I hope you enjoy the characters in my world and that you'll branch off and read some of the others. The Italian language is beautiful and I feel so honored to have my book translated to it. It truly is a very exciting thing for me! I'm very thankful Follie Letterarie took a chance on my book!

Thank you so much, Kristi, for your attention.
